

This project was harder for me than the last one. I think I struggled most with working with the moving image, seeing as it wasn't as clear-cut a rectangle, I think I tended to overthink what I needed to do with it. I also think I spent too much time revising my older project (granted it rocks now, so it was worth it). I still need to put more work into this project, I couldn't figure out how to get the figure to bump into the side of the block, even though it can jump on top.